November 2017

Birthday Season

As we celebrate our congregation's 60th birthday, there is another anniversary that has occupied much of the Western branch of Christendom and that is the 500th anniversary of the Reformation. Martin Luther, an Augustinian friar and professor of theology at the University of Wittenberg sent a letter to his bishop along with a list of academic theses; the letter was dated October 31, 1517; the eve of All Saints Day, also known as All Hallows Day and, you guessed it, the reason we have a day called Halloween (Hallow's Eve).

In many parts of the world there has been much celebrating of the 500th anniversary of what would become known as the Reformation. There is good reason to doubt that the young professor (He had only earned his doctorate and professorship five years earlier.) intended a universal reform of the Roman Catholic Church. More than likely he was interested in doing what professors did (and still do): carefully investigate a line of inquiry. Probably no university professor has ever caused more change with one broadsheet than Herr Doktor Luther!

What Luther began was carried in various theological directions as the Reformation grew in scope. Our own Presbyterian heritage has its source in people who were greatly influenced by Luther and his writings. The great Reformed (i.e., Presbyterian) reformer, John Calvin, was only 8 when Luther wrote his 95 Theses, but in Luther's later years he wrote favorably of Calvin's theological works. Though the two reformers never met, they stand today as giants in the Protestant tradition. What Luther began, in many ways, Calvin continued and enhanced.

As we approach the Advent season, we will mark the 500th anniversary of the Reformation by taking as themes for our worship five of the mottos of the Reformation: the Five Solas. Sola is the Latin word for "alone" and for both Luther and Calvin and their colleagues these five phrases summed up the Gospel faith: We are saved by faith alone in Christ alone who saves us by grace alone (and not by our works) so we might live for God's glory alone; this we know because of what God has given us in the sole rule of faith and practice for the Church--the Word of God, alone.

This is another birthday worth marking because the Reformation has shaped who we are as Presbyterians. During this month, we will mark the 500th anniversary of the Reformation by learning more about the power of placing our faith in the great grace given in Jesus Christ--because of that grace, you and I have every reason to keep

Hoping Big,

Adult Ed Forum
Someone to Watch Over Me
Sunday, November 5
10:45 am in the Community Room

As Christians, we know that our spiritual selves are cradled in God's care. As humans, we know that we are responsible for the care of our own physical selves and, often, for the care of our loved ones. What happens when we need direction or help in navigating treatments or hospital care? Who is available to help us when we become care givers for others? What is the NJ Care Act and how does it relate to care givers?

Join us in the Community Room on Sunday, November 5, as Terry Ruggles emcees a panel of experts on care. Speakers include two nurse navigators from Cooper University Hospital who will discuss the role of the nurse navigator to aid a patient on his/her medical journey, and a speaker from AARP's Care Giving Resource Center who will speak about resources available for caregivers and the New Jersey Care Act.

Opening information from the speakers and dialogue with emcee Ruggles will be followed by a question and answer session with the audience.

Hillbilly Elegy A Memoir of a Family and Culture in Crisis

By J. D. Vance

Whatever happened to the American Dream? J. D. Vance's memoir about growing up in Appalachia is an attempt to explain why this American ideal of upper mobility has become a myth for a significant portion of our population.

For most people, the term Appalachia and the characteristics embodied in it applies to rural Kentucky and West Virginia. Vance explains that the geographic area of Appalachia is much larger than that because so many people born there migrated to Ohio, Pennsylvania and even New York in search of an escape from poverty and a better life. For most of them the dream did not come true. Though they were not impoverished, they had to struggle to achieve only a smidgeon of middle class life.

Vance himself did fulfill the dream, graduating from Yale Law School and having a happy family and a successful career. But his memoir chronicles how unlikely this is:

“I wrote this book because I’ve achieved something quite ordinary, which doesn’t happen to most kids who grew up like me. You see, I grew up poor in the Rust Belt, in an Ohio town that has been hemorrhaging jobs and hope for as long as I can remember. I want people to understand what happens in the lives of the poor and the psychological impact that spiritual and material poverty has on their children. I want people to understand the American Dream as my family and I encountered it.”

In addition to relating the author’s life story, Hillbilly Elegy draws on an array of historical and social analyses in an attempt to understand when, how and why “hillbillies” have lost faith in the ideals of upward mobility and opportunities to come. It is an “elegy” on the American Dream.

Hillbilly Elegy was on the best seller list for more than a year. As a reviewer, I put off reading it because I do not usually enjoy memoirs, preferring to read fiction. But this memoir includes interesting situations (plot) and people (characters). Vance’s tough but loving grandmother (Mamaw) provided steady guidance as he grew up. His mother’s drug addiction and failed relationships with men create chaos in his life. Traits which Vance associates with the culture of Appalachia (intense loyalty, especially to family, fervent love of country, violent tendencies and verbal abuse) describe many of the people in the book.

If you would like us to purchase a particular book for the Trinity Library, stop by on Sunday or contact Dottie Dunfee (dunfeet@aol.com).

Finance and Stewardship

Finance and Stewardship Campaign 2017: Honoring the Past, Serving the Present and Providing for the Future.

Trinity's Annual Stewardship Campaign commenced on October 15. The theme of this year's Annual Stewardship Campaign is: Honoring the Past, Serving the Present and Providing for the Future. As we celebrate Trinity's 60th anniversary this year, we recognize how past generations have built a strong foundation of faith, mission and programs at Trinity. As stewards of our Church, we have the obligation to continue to build on this foundation. We should celebrate all that we have accomplished with the recent enhancements to our facilities, maintaining a highly qualified and devoted staff, our ministry serving others in the community and the many programs we offer to our members. However, to maintain this vitality and provide the growth that is important for our future, your support is essential.

Each Sunday during the campaign, speakers will address our past accomplishments, current programs and future initiatives focused on the Church's and our own personal growth. Our scheduled speakers are:

Donna Croker - Campaign Kick-off
Bill Stockwell – Honoring the Past
Margaret Gammie – Serving the Present
Bill Kain- Providing for the Future

Your generous financial support is needed to maintain current staff, programs and mission and help secure Trinity's future. You should receive your pledge card during the week of November 5. Please place this card in the offering plate during the worship service or mail it to the Church office. Stewardship Sunday is November 12.

Per Capita

The Finance and Stewardship Committee would like to remind you to give your Per Capita for 2017. If you have already done so, we thank you. West Jersey Presbytery has set the amount at $39 per member for 2017. Per Capita is the amount of money per member that our congregation pays to our larger Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). This money is part of the glue that holds Presbyterians together, enabling Trinity to work with other Presbyterian Churches in our presbytery and across the country to further the mission of Jesus Christ around the world. Per capita is determined by member, not by family. Therefore, a family of four commissioned-members would each owe Per Capita on an annual basis, resulting in four payments. If the Per Capita amount of $39 is not received from a member, Trinity must take monies from its operating budget, which could then limit our other ministries. We hope that you will consider giving your Per Capita for 2017.

Honoring the Past – Stewardship 2017

Bill Stockwell

The Stewardship Campaign Committee has asked me to share my perspectives from the past.

Although I was raised in the Church – I've had valleys in my faith journey. But over the years I have been touched by people here - who helped me be better and caused me to grow in my faith.

At 6' 4" – I don't look up to many men. However - over my years at Trinity - I have looked up to a number of them. Most I got to know during my times with the Property & Buildings Committee. Ben Wean, Ken Thorne, Bill Schacht (fearless on the high ladder!), Joe Weaver (I think I crawled every foot of the underground storm sewer with him – more than once.), Alex Webb and Bill Bowman. Other Trinity men who have impacted my life have been Jack Meldrum, Randy Kraft, Jim Reese, Norris Anders, Ben Callaway, Gerry Gillette, Bill Carson, Norm Blessing and my Dad, Elb Stockwell. All these men were successful outside of church from Monday through Saturday – but humble men of faith on Sunday mornings. And know that my list is longer than we have time for this morning.

Some of you know that I run a small manufacturing business in Philadelphia. I put in a long and often bruising week – just like the challenging world you and I are living in today. I come to church to worship and hear the word of God through scripture, the sermons and the music. I enjoy being among all of you – my church family. Being part of this faith community restores me – I go back to battle on Monday morning renewed.

There is another aspect of my business that I want to share with you. We have a handful of folks in my shop who I consider to be 'multipliers'. People who – if you give them some resources and trust - really get things done in a great way. I treasure those people. And we are blessed with multipliers here in this congregation. And allow me to name a few. Tony Ceneviva, Walt Steinle, Pam Dougherty, Ed Sanborn, Steve Morton, Tom Tilsner, Rick Bean, Rick Fletcher, Bob Thorpe, Bill Strobel – and others - who spend the church's money sparingly and accomplish great things with their hands and hearts. And let me add Debby Talbott and Lisa Marcelli– some of our great multipliers. And I see many others among you.

I am involved in a faith organization named Integrity Ministries. It's comprised of businessmen trying to run their businesses in a way that integrates Christian Principles with the Private Business Sector. The members attend other churches in our region. It gives me an opportunity to hear how some neighboring congregations are faring. And I hear of situations in local churches that cause me to feel grateful for what we have here in Trinity.

For example, in recent years we ran a capital campaign and a complete renovation of our Sanctuary, Fellowship Hall and bath rooms that didn't financially compromise us. Thanks to our multipliers.

While we – as a congregation - are focused on Christ and our caring for each other – our feet are firmly and squarely planted in the reality of good stewardship. We have smart people on our Session looking out for the business of the church. Brad Ritchie, Kyle Allen and I just completed our church audit – we have good controls here. So I can say to you: this church – this organization - is very worthy of our best investment.

As in Proverbs Chapter 3: Verse 9 – Our first fruits. We need this congregation to prosper – Trinity has to be our place of faith, our place of renewal in a very uncertain, and increasingly challenging world. And so, I am hoping each of you – according to your ability – will prayerfully consider increasing your pledge to Trinity for this coming year.

Witherspoon Bathrooms—Scary No More!

Did you know that our children and youth called the Witherspoon Center bathrooms “the scary bathrooms?” They were dark, dingy, crowded with extra partitions and just plain outdated—they were in dire need of a makeover. Well, they are no longer scary—they are clean, colorful and beautiful! Our fabulous Property & Buildings team recently renovated and updated them, along with the Adam and Eve bathrooms in the basement of the main building.

The bathrooms in Witherspoon Center were gutted; new tile was installed on walls and floors; new heaters, new partitions and new countertops with integrated sinks were also installed. Both rooms were made handicapped accessible. New ceiling tiles, lights and mirrors completed the refreshed, up-to-date look. At the start of the project, P&B discovered that the water heater was leaking so rather than simply replace it, a tankless one was installed, saving energy and giving us additional closet space. In the main building, the Adam & Eve bathrooms were repainted, the partitions were replaced, floors were scrubbed clean, and brighter light fixtures and new countertops with integrated sinks were installed.

With a $20,000 budget, the committee had to be very careful about expenses. Therefore, all labor was volunteer labor, provided by the members of the P&B Committee and a few other dedicated volunteers. Pam Dougherty and Amy Manley consulted on design decisions but Walt Steinle, Tony Ceneviva, Tom Tilsner, Rick Bean, Ed Sanborn, Stan Blair, Chris Bryfogle, Bill Strobel and Walter Steinle III got down and dirty for 2-1/2 months, working diligently to finish the project, and overcoming problem after problem along the way. Please check out the renovated spaces, and the next time you see Walt and his crew, give them a nice pat on the back for another job well done!

If you are a handyman or woman and would like to utilize your talents at Trinity, the P&B Committee would love to have your help. Please contact Tony Ceneviva at aceneviva@verizon.net or Walt Steinle at w_steinle@verizon.net.
